

Independent Monitoring Consultants

OCCUPATIONAL HYGIENE

Recognising and controlling workplace health hazards, situations, and work practices

Business Challenges

Good occupational health and safety practices are an important area of company management today. Assessing and controlling risk from hazardous substances, situations, and work practices are important obligations for employers.

A strong focus on a safer workplace can have positive effects on productivity, workforce retention, and competitiveness.

HOW DO YOU MEET THESE CHALLENGES

Occupational Hygiene is all about recognising, evaluating, and controlling physical, chemical, and biological hazards in the workplace that occur in diverse and varied work environments. Independent Monitoring Consultants is a reliable partner in helping you to achieve compliance with statutory and State regulations. We can assist you to focus and monitor the many types of hazards provide testing, with results that offer reassurance and remedial actions where necessary.

What are the key benefits?

- Allows you to identify which regulations apply to your organisation
- Helps you to comply with the numerous workplace health and safety obligations
- Enables you to monitor and measure health hazards and control with recognised professionals
- Benefit from the expert opinions of our quality assessors, auditors, consultants and technicians

WHY CHOOSE INDEPENDENT MONITORING CONSULTANTS?

- Recognition and reputation – IMC is Australia's largest independent microbiological sampling, consulting & testing service to the Hospitality, Healthcare & Commercial industries for water systems, corrosion monitoring & Indoor Air Quality.
- Professionalism – all sampling, monitoring, and audits are performed by our experienced technicians. The IMC laboratory is accredited to International Standards ISO17025. IMC technical expertise and proficiency has been perfected during the past 20 years through our national and international experience, and with a combined 100 years of water treatment knowledge and experience in our senior staff IMC is the perfect partner.
- Personalised Service – IMC adapts its services to your needs to help and identify the legal occupational health and safety obligations that apply to your business.

Independent Monitoring Consultants – Head Office 23-25 Daking Street North Parramatta NSW Australia
Malaysia and Thailand